Government Moves Toward Honor System Wage Formula

SENATE CALLS UP PROFITS TAX MEASURE

Washington, Dec. 20.—(P)—House Democratic leader McCormack today suggested a general manufacturers' excise tax as a means of gathering additional billions to put the defense effort on a pay-as-you-go basis.

This was his answer to newsmen's questions on how congress can raise the $16,000,000,000 to $20,000,000,000 needed to balance out the defense budget.

Manufacturers excise taxes already are in effect on some products, including refrigerators, radios, television sets, tobacco and whiskey. They are paid by the manufacturer and usually added to the price of the product.

McCormack expressed his views on raising more tax revenue as the senate called up the multi-billion dollar excess profits tax bill, amid signs that more and higher taxes will be enacted after the new congress convenes in January.

Leaders pressed for a senate vote on the measure tomorrow, confident of getting senate-house agreement on its terms before New Year's and possibly before Christmas.

The house already has passed a considerably different version of the bill.

The senate finance committee in a report to congress estimated the measure in its present form could produce between $4,000,000,000 and $5,000,000,000 a year with defense spending at the level expected in 1951.

That would be for a full fiscal year. For the 1950 calendar year, the committee estimated the tax would raise $8,200,000,000 through retroactive features which would impose much of the tax on corporation earnings since last July 1.

The committee added: "Further substantial increases in taxes must be made next year if receipts are even to approach the anticipated levels of expenditures."

President Truman also has said the tax load must become heavier.

SNOW REMOVAL COSTS PITTSBURGH MILLION

Pittsburgh, Dec. 20.—(P)—The job of cleaning up after the 31-inch snowfall in late November is costing taxpayers of Allegheny between $750,000 and $1,000,000.

The city of Pittsburgh already has appropriated $600,000 and all the bills haven't come in yet. Allegheny county has paid about $87,500, the city of McKeesport $40,000 and the city of Clairton $7,000. Borough and township bills are still to be reported.

New Record For Cancellations Set By Christmas Rush At Warren Post Office

Christmas mail at the Warren post office is running far ahead of last year, and at least one new all-time record has been set. The new record was 123,500 cancellations for one day, which was established Monday. This exceeded by a few hundred the previous all-time mark, set last year.

Post office officials said the cancellations of first class mail and Christmas cards is running about 100,000 ahead of last season, and that both incoming and outgoing parcel post has shown an increase of about 12 percent.

However, the big rush is apparently over. Cancellations Tuesday totaled 97,000, and this figure is expected to drop steadily for the balance of the week.

The regular post office staff has been augmented with the addition of 32 extras, and everything is expected to be cleaned up by Christmas.

EMPLOYEE-OWNERS

Pittsburgh, Dec. 20.—(P)—About 10,000 employees of the Westinghouse Electric Corporation have become part owners of the company, according to a Westinghouse statement. Workers are permitted to buy Westinghouse stock at $4 a share below the average market price.

Clue to Coming Restraints Expected to Develop During Conferences Called By ECA

Washington, Dec. 20.—(P)—Union labor today demanded that any government wage controls plan allow for pay increases to match rises in the cost of living.

A union labor policy committee, headed by AFL President William Green and CIO President Philip Murray, took this request to President Truman even as the economic stabilization agency worked on a wage formula to go along with the voluntary price control system announced last night.

Members of the group said they also asked new legislation to permit greater controls over food prices and rents.

The board is made up of three representatives each from labor, industry and the public.

The group asked further that "labor be granted active participation and real leadership in every important agency in our mobilization effort."

It opposed "use of compulsory civilian labor"—that is any manpower controls which would force workers to take defense jobs.

On prices, the group said it was impossible to control living costs under the defense production act (the present controls legislation) because "great increases are specifically permitted" in food prices and because rents "are not now effectively controlled."

Walter P. Reuther, president of the CIO-United Auto Workers, was one of the labor leaders who visited Mr. Truman. From the White House he went to the economic stabilization agency for government-management-labor discussions of the auto industry's problems.

There was a chance this meeting would produce some clue to ESA's planned wage restraints on all labor. The agency meantime hoped for a wage of voluntary price rollbacks—mostly at the mill, mine and factory level—in accordance with its price-profits formula announced last night.

But if compliance does not come voluntarily, ESA Administrator Alan Valentine warned, compulsory price ceilings will be clamped on and the standards may be "more rigorous" than those now set forth.

The call for a voluntary price freeze came as the cost-of-living index appeared heading for a new all-time high.

Latest figures by the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics showed wholesale prices for the week ending Dec. 12 were 10.2 per cent higher than just before the outbreak of fighting in Korea.

So it appeared certain that prices will stay above the pre-Korea level even if there is a rollback to the level of Dec. 1.

The new "fair pricing standards" call for a rollback of any price increase made by a factory or mine since Dec. 1, if the increase brings the company's net profits above the average dollar profits, before taxes, in the years 1946 through 1949.

In the case of storekeepers and wholesalers, the gross profit margin on any item may not be increased above the June, 1950, level if this would make the dealer's total profits bigger than his 1946-49 average.

Washington, Dec. 20.—(P)—A Defense Department casualty report (No. 181) issued today listed 84 dead, 280 wounded, 45 missing and 60 injured.

TRUCK DRIVER DIES

Pittsburgh, Dec. 20.—(P)—George J. Novosall, 65, delivery truck driver for Gimbels, died of a heart attack on his first day on the job yesterday following the end of a 29-day walkout of drivers against three department stores.

President Signs Legislation Extending Existing Rent Controls to March 31st

Washington, Dec. 20.—(P)—President Truman today signed legislation extending existing rent controls to March 31, 1951.

The 90-day extension was voted by congress at Mt. Truman's request. The idea is to give the incoming congress time to review the national housing picture in the light of changed conditions created by the defense emergency.

Without the interim extension, rent controls would have expired Dec. 31 except in those communities acting to retain them until June 30.

The extension signed by Mr.

Drastic Cutbacks In Allotments Of Steel

New York, Dec. 20.—(P)—Notices are going out this week to steel consumers of drastic cutbacks in their February allotments of steel, according to the iron age, national metalworking weekly.

The cutbacks vary widely with different products and different companies.

Quotas for flat-rolled products such as plates, sheets and strip are being slashed mostly deeply, the magazine says, some as much as 50 per cent.

Strict Screening Of War News From Korea Is Announced

Tokyo, Dec. 20.—(P)—General MacArthur's headquarters today imposed the right of censorship over all news of Korean military operations without calling it an act of censorship.

A memorandum from MacArthur's public information officer, Col. M. P. Echols, said news dispatches and photographs must be submitted in Korea or Japan for security "screening" and clearance by military authorities before being sent out.

The brief announcement did not specify any penalty for evasion or violation.

The order was effective immediately. The Tokyo headquarters press advisory division immediately became swamped with copy. The division up to then had operated solely as a guiding influence on news involving security.

From the beginning of the Korean war June 25, correspondents were placed on their honor not to disclose information that might help the Reds. This voluntary system didn't always work. Some so-called news "beats" resulted from rather loose individual interpretations by war correspondents on what constituted security.

Since early in the campaign some of the press had asked for the imposition of formal censorship—not only to provide real security on important military moves, but to give all correspondents an even break on big stories bearing on marginal security considerations.

Army authorities in Tokyo have contended they lacked the manpower to enforce such censorship and that it would be ineffective.

McCarthy - Pearson Feud Grows Hotter

Washington, Dec. 20.—(P)—The feud between Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) and Columnist Drew Pearson shows no signs of dying out.

McCarthy told the senate last night that Pearson is a "political terrorist and character assassin."

And, said McCarthy, Adam Hat Stores, Inc., should stop sponsoring him on the radio.

Pearson retorted in a statement: "Senator McCarthy is rapidly making the initial 'M.C.' supposed to mean member of congress, take on a new meaning—mental case."

The long-standing unfriendliness between the senator and the columnist erupted into a roughhouse in the cloak room of a private club here last week. And on Friday, McCarthy blasted Pearson on the senate floor, calling him a "Moscow-directed character assassin." Pearson replied he was fighting Communism while McCarthy was helping it.

An Adam Hat official said that night that Pearson's views and policies do not represent his company's.

AWAIT REPLY FROM PEIPING ON PROPOSAL

Lake Success, Dec. 20.—(P)—The United Nations cease-fire commission for Korea was bogged down today by the silence of Communist China.

There still was no answer to a direct appeal sent Peiping last Saturday, asking for a meeting to talk over a truce in Korea as a step to far east peace.

Negotiators Sir Bengal N. Rau of India, Canadian foreign affairs minister Lester B. Pearson, and U. N. assembly president Nasrullah Entezam, after two meetings yesterday, said they are "considering what further steps can be taken." They may hold another meeting today.

The commission sent its appeal directly to Peiping after Red Chinese envoys, here to discuss the case of Formosa, said they were not empowered to talk about the Korean cease-fire proposal.

The U. N. assembly political committee meanwhile is standing by for a quick call if there are developments on the cease fire question.

Peiping's envoys left New York last night by plane for London and Moscow. Wu Hsiu-Chuan, head of the mission, issued a statement wishing the American people a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, and charging that "Anglo-American ruling circles" rejected a Chinese Communist plan for peace in the far east.

STATE EMPLOYMENT IS ON THE UPGRADE

Philadelphia, Dec. 20.—(P)—Employment, wages and working hours were on the upgrade in Pennsylvania and Delaware last month, the federal reserve bank of Philadelphia reports. Gains were in the durable goods lines, non-durables showing little change.

The bank said yesterday all three labor indicators registered big increases over November, 1949. When heavy goods industries were beginning to recover from steel and coal strikes.

From October to November of this year, the number of production workers in Pennsylvania increased one percent, to 1,195,000. Total weekly wage payments rose two per cent, reaching $72,168,000. Total weekly man hours advanced one per cent, and hourly earnings went up about two cents, to an average of $1.48. Average weekly earnings reached a new high of $60.39, with the average work week at 41 hours.

There are at present several divisions in the local defense plan which are in need of volunteers immediately so that training programs may be initiated in the near future.

The county court house has been designated as temporary headquarters for the Warren County Defense unit and Ralph Sires, prothonotary, has available data cards to be completed by volunteers. Volunteers will then be assigned to the appropriate division where their abilities and skills may be best utilized. Consideration is taken of the fact that a volunteer may have to give way to other responsibilities which will at times interrupt his volunteer service.

PRESIDENT AT PARTY FOR "LAME DUCKS"

Washington, Dec. 20.—(P)—President Truman attended a surprise dinner party last night given for Democratic senators Lucas (Ill.) and Myers (Pa.).

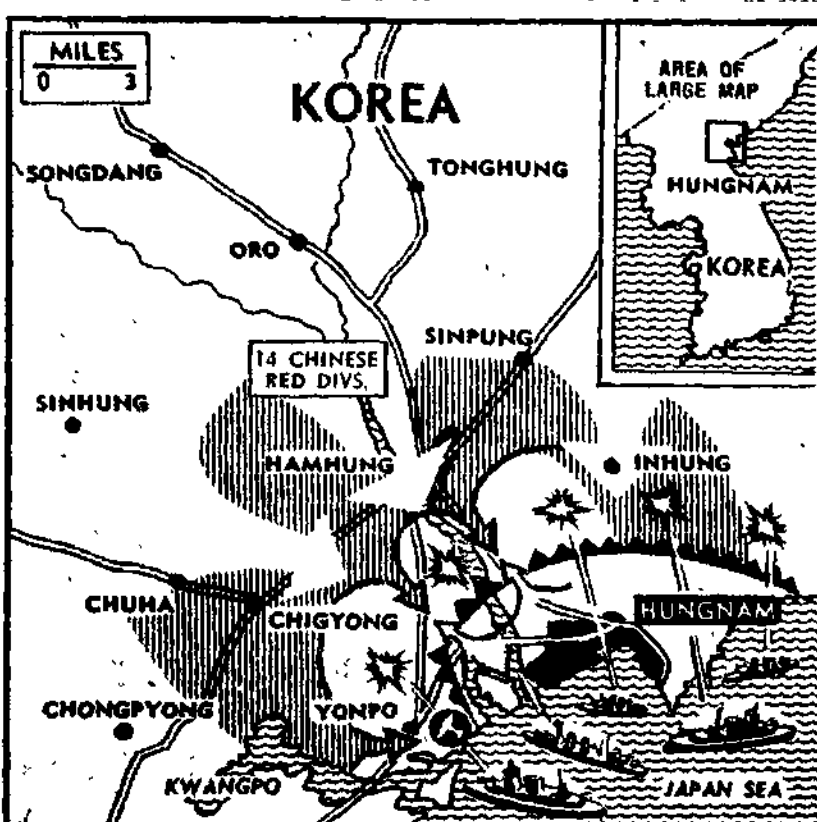

Lucas, the senate majority leader, and Myers, assistant leader, both were defeated in the November elections and will end their service when the new congress convenes Jan. 3.

Democratic senators gave the surprise dinner in the senate private dining room in tribute to the congressional service of Lucas and Myers.

QUICKIES By Ken Reynolds

"Just as I thought—these skates Junior got with a Times-Mirror Want Ad, aren't exactly safe!"

YONPO AIRPORT FALLS—Yonpo Airport (plane symbol) was knocked out by Chinese forces smashing into southwestern suburbs of Hungnam. Other enemy troops were moving forward in Chig-yong area and moving south and southeast (large open arrows) on defense line (black jagged arc). Seaward, heavy cruisers St. Paul and Rochester with protecting destroyers (ship symbols) poured volleys (explosion symbols) into enemy positions all around perimeter. Battleship Missouri also wheeled into Hungnam waters to train her 16-inch guns on Red strong points. B-29's bombed Pyongyang, Wonsan, Chongju and Kogon while Jull in fighting continued between ground forces on western front.

Local Defense Leaders Issue Statement Outlining Plans In National Emergency

Judge Allison D. Wade, County Defense Coordinator and W. Floyd Clinger, deputy coordinator issued a joint statement this morning concerning the National Emergency which has been declared by the United States Government.

The local defense leaders pointed out that to conform with the National Emergency there will be a great demand on the nation's manpower resources and therefore every effort must be made to utilize volunteers to staff the Civilian Defense Program for Warren County.

This program will not need a large number of persons for full time service, but will need many individuals who are capable and available to assume the additional duties that Civilian Defense may require.

Professional, industrial and utility organizations have experts who can assume leadership in the fields with which they are most concerned. However, these public spirited citizens, whatever their knowledge and experience, must be trained in the techniques of Civilian Defense.

There are at present several divisions in the local defense plan which are in need of volunteers immediately so that training programs may be initiated in the near future.

The county court house has been designated as temporary headquarters for the Warren County Defense unit and Ralph Sires, prothonotary, has available data cards to be completed by volunteers. #### Truck Driver Is Held Responsible By Coroner's Jury For McIntyre Tragedy

Frank C. Nadijek, 19, of Harrisburg, was driving a tractor-trailer when it left Harrisburg. He became sleepy and allowed Nadijek to drive.

Coroner S. J. Roberts of Dauphin county said Nadijek had not driven a tractor-trailer before.

Roberts added Nadijek lost control of the vehicle, it struck a culvert and then crossed to the left side of the road, striking the eastbound car, driven by Rev. McIntyre.

Roberts said Nadijek is to be held under $3,000 bail for the January session of Dauphin county court. Roberts said the charge will be involuntary manslaughter.

The jury found Jackson negligent in allowing Nadijek to drive the vehicle without notifying his employer. The coroner said he did not know if a charge would be placed against Jackson.

Thursday evening from seven until nine o'clock a variety show will be presented with a program calling for participation of patients in carol singing.

Saturday afternoon at two o'clock the Veterans of Foreign Wars will be at the hospital with their annual entertainment for veterans, and on Sunday there will be church services for patients of all denominations.

Christmas morning thirty student nurses will participate in carol singing in all wards and around the grounds of the institution. (Turn to Page Eight)

TENTH CORPS HOLDING RED UNITS AT BAY

Tokyo, Dec. 20.—(P)—Beachhead defenders of the U. S. 10th Corps held pressing Red forces at bay tonight all along the Allies' deliberately reduced Hungnam post area in northeast Korea.

The planned withdrawal was proceeding under protective fire of artillery and the guns of warships standing in to shore. Dough-boys now hold a relatively small slice of land only a few square miles in area around Hungnam harbor.

The big job of keeping the Red troops from massing for an all-out attack of the Americans fell to the gunners lobbing tons on Today's Department of Defense casualty lists from Korea contain the following names of men from this area: Died of wounds: Pfc. Robert H. Osterberg, son of Mrs. Ann Koenig, 646 West 23rd street, Erie, Miss.; in action: Pfc. Jack R. Grazer, son of Mrs. Clara Grazer, 269 Linden avenue, Oil City. Wounded: Cpl. Thomas R. tons of shells at the Chinese and Korean Reds trying to push the 10th Corps elements into the sea.

While the gunners held off the enemy hordes, there was no way of telling how long they could keep back the pressing thousands creeping ever closer to the Allied toehold on the beach.

Marine and Navy pilots hit 24 enemy troop concentrations and claimed to have inflicted 1,300 casualties on the Chinese and North Koreans. Eight thousand Red Koreans have reinforced the estimated 100,000 Chinese swarming down on the beachhead.

With nearby Yonpo airfield abandoned, American wounded were rushed to the water's edge in jeeps and then sped by boat to a well-lighted naval hospital ship in the busy harbor.

Across the Korean peninsula in the west, U. S. Eighth Army troops fought minor engagements with North Korean forces weaving over parallel 38 in a 30-mile spread around Chunchon.

Chunchon is 45 miles northeast of Seoul and 10 miles south of 38.

An eighth Army spokesman said there had been a two day lull in that sector and all enemy troops there had been identified as North Koreans.

Fifteen miles east of Kaesong, west of Chunchon, another South Korean force stopped and turned back 200 North Koreans trying (Turn to Page Eight)

On-Farm Training Program for Vets Will Be Resumed

Announcement was made today that the On-the-farm training program for some 130 veterans in Warren county will be resumed immediately.

The program was suspended on Nov. 30 when a contract between the Warren County School Board, sponsors of the program here, and the Veterans Administration expired. County Superintendent of Schools H. L. Blair said the contract was not immediately renewed because there were some clauses in it to which the board members did not agree.

Two VA officials from Pittsburgh came here yesterday for a conference with county school officials, and provisions of a new contract were agreed to. Representing the county were Superintendent Blair, Assistant Superintendent W. J. Summerville, County Board President Hans Walchli of Clarendon, and County Vocational Adviser Ted Sponser. Sponser, who directs the program with the assistance of a half-dozen instructors, said all vets previously enrolled in the program will be re-enrolled immediately.

Additional Firms Are Acquired By Myers Lab. Inc.

Final negotiations have been concluded for the purchase of two additional proprietary medicine firms whose businesses will be moved to Warren and consolidated with the present activities of Myers Laboratories, Inc.

The Lawrence-Williams Company of Cleveland, Ohio has for over 50 years produced a liniment known as Lawrence's Caustic Balm and the local firm will attempt to substantially expand the sales outlets for this fine liniment.

Greene's August Flower for over 50 years was produced by the G. G. Greene, Inc. of Woodbury, New Jersey, and this product which is a liquid laxative-antacid has an existing volume of sales which will increase the sales of the local firm by approximately 25%.

Gordon Hanks, general manager of Myers Laboratories, reports that these companies represent the 20th and 21st drug firms that have been purchased and moved to Warren with plans to continue expanding the local company until it has sufficient volume to warrant the maintenance of a modern research staff.

Workers In P. T. A. Groups To Confer

Attending the Erie meeting from here were Mrs. Walter Mathyer, district secretary, Mrs. August Bova, president of the Warren Community PTA Council, and Dr. Carl Whipple, superintendent of Warren borough schools and a vice president of the state organization.

Kaufmann further stated: "A substantial increase in the purchase of U. S. Savings Bonds on the part of every citizen will be of tremendous benefit to the Country in financing our military operations."

German Students Present Yule Play

Two groups of second-year German students at Warren High School gave two performances each of a German Christmas play Tuesday, once for its own class and once for a first-year class.

In one group, characters were taken by Carroll Kotmair, Connie Peterson, Margaret Waldeck, Jack Cropp, Leroy Salerno and George Wilbur. In the other were Jean Andersen, Grace Germonito, Barbara Lundahl, George Gnader, Robert Lauffenberger and Johan Stohl.

For an earlier class session, the classes listened to records of German Christmas carols, belonging to and provided by their instructor, Edward Zulak. After the recordings had been played, the remainder of the periods were devoted to learning and singing the carols.

The employment of people paid to applaud dramatic performances was common in ancient times.

Yule Program At Lacy School Most Entertaining One

Using a beautiful backdrop scene of a Madonna and two angels, created by sixth grade pupils for the stage in Lacy school auditorium, students of that building presented a very well prepared and entertaining program Tuesday afternoon.

For its numbers, the first grade sang a song, "Santa Claus," with a solo, "Silent Night," by Ada Woodley and another number, "Away In a Manger," by John Check.

Second graders gave a one-act play, "When Santa Sleeps," followed by a tap dance done by John Check, first grader, and Diane Anderson, second grade. A touch of the unusual was the appearance of the third grade as a rhythm band, completely equipped with instruments the pupils had themselves fashioned. After they had played "Jingle Bells," all joined in singing "Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer."

Short talks on Christmas in many lands were heard from these fourth graders: Gretchen Morse, Lois Henry, Janice Larson, Paul Mahaffy, Carol Berghund. This grade also did four familiar songs: "I Saw Three Ships," "Pine Tree Song," "Away In a Manger," and "In a Manger He Is Lying."

The fifth grade gave a play, "The King Is Born," with about 15 characters and a like number, attired in robes and occupying the

Another play, "The Woodcutter's Christmas," was done in three acts by the sixth graders, after which the program was concluded with a dramatization and singing of

Let's Have More Sympathy For Papa This Christmas

WHO says men have it easy? Pity the poor Papa who goes into a sweat every year trying to find the right present for Mama. Chances are she'll groan to the girls in her bridge club about what the poor darling finally picked out. Or, just as bad, she'll take it back to the store where it was purchased for another of those day after Christmas refunds.

Now it seems secretaries are complaining about what the boss gives them for Christmas, too.

In an article in the December Cosmopolitan titled "What Bosses Give Secretaries for Christmas" the author, an ex-secretary, takes her husband to task for the cheapness of his yearly gift to his secretary and the lack of imagination he displays in selecting it.

"How stingy can a man be?" she asks questioningly, and points out all that the poor little slave of a secretary does for her boss during the year. Then she tells how the poor dear winds up at Christmas as the disgusted recipient of a couple of pairs of nylon stockings or "a bottle of perfume the jerk picked up at the corner drugstore after lunch on Christmas Eve."

NO BREAKS FOR DAD

POOR, poor Papa. Does he exchange those awful ties and inevitable socks he finds under the Christmas tree year after year? Does he feel sorry for himself because nobody, but nobody, repays his year's hard work and headaches by buying him an imaginative, extravagant, wonderful gift at Christmas?

You bet he doesn't. He acts pleased as punch with whatever he gets. Doesn't complain about his Christmas loot to his cronies and wouldn't dream of hurting anyone's feelings by exchanging a gift.

And what does he get in return? A couple of disappointed females on his hands, Mama and his secretary, if his gifts to them aren't exactly what they've been coveting all year.

At Christmas time a man just can't win.

Corydon Resident Is Honored By Auxiliary

Corydon, Dec. 20—A gaily trimmed Yuletide tree and a refreshments table centered with frothy branches of native pine and miniature snowmen in a horse-drawn sleigh created the festive setting for the Women's Auxiliary party held in the IOOF hall.

Serving as hostesses were Mrs. Clyde LaDow, Mrs. Williams and Mrs. J. C. Jones.

Guest of honor for the event was George Akers, whose 81st birthday anniversary fell on the same date as the party. He was greeted with the singing of "Happy Birthday" and, in behalf of the organization, Mrs. Margaret Williams presented him with two useful gifts. He expressed grateful appreciation for the party and gifts.

A social time and the refreshments concluded the evening.

Preceding the Christmas affair, a brief business session was held and there was discussion of several future events. After the adjournment, gifts were exchanged by the 22 members present. A program followed, with group singing and readings by Emily Swanson and Mabel Russ.

LADIES AID SOCIETY
The Ladies Aid Society of First Evangelical United Brethren church will meet in the Folkman parlors of the church at 2:30 p. m. Thursday and all members and friends are urged to be in attendance. Hostesses will be Mrs. Cohan and Mrs. Lucille Johnson.

For GOOD-ness Sake

By Betty Rice

PEACE on earth, GOOD WILL toward men!

PEACE on earth seems in a somewhat doubtful state for Christmas 1950, but as far as good will is concerned there is plenty of that working for the Community Chest agencies who act strictly for Good-ness Sake.

The Children's Aid Society looks after the unfortunate little ones; The Visiting Nurse Association cares for the sick poor; The YMCA and YWCA guides the young men and women of a future generation; The Boy Scouts have been renovating toys for Christmas giving; the Girl Scouts are busily engaged in delivering Christmas nuts to finance several vital projects; The Warren Relief Association is readying food orders and a supply of milk and warm clothing for those who need such help; The Well Baby Clinic is still doing a grand job keeping the well babies well and the Salvation Army bell has been ringing a request for funds with which to carry on its duty.

AND among the boughs of evergreen, the holly, the happy lights and the merry bells shines the RED CROSS who asks you to give a pint of blood to humanity. January 10 is the next blood collection date—so don't hesitate.

NOW on behalf of all of the organizations who sponsor this weekly column, we extend best wishes for a MERRY CHRISTMAS—to those who help and to those who need help.

New Spring Creek School Has Opening

Formal dedication services to open the new Spring Creek township school building were held Monday evening in the school cafeteria. A crowd of 175 was estimated in attendance.

Rev. Jordan Cole acted as master of ceremonies and introduced the various speakers.

Dr. Robert Donaldson, of Warren, a native of Spring Creek township and a graduate of the school with the class of 1919, was the principal speaker. He reminisced about the problems of heating with pot-bellied stoves, fired up when the teacher arrived in the morning. Outside clothing and a seat-mate in the double desks then prevailing were necessary for comfort, he said.

Rev. William Brooks, East Branch pastor, led in the prayer of dedication.

Other speakers on the program included James Murray, principal of Spartansburg high school; C. S. Monroe, Corry school board member; Mrs. Arden Rockafellow, vice-president of the Spring Creek PTA; Gurney Ball, of Youngville, state building inspector; and H. L. Blair, county superintendent of schools.

Mrs. Howard Burleigh, member of the Spring Creek township school board, spoke for that group.

The cost of the new three-room building was $35,000, paid by about $12,000 saved in past years, $19,000 borrowed, and the remainder from taxes and state subsidy. Members of the board announced that there would be no increase in taxes as a result of the building program.

The new structure was integrated with a two-room frame building which serves as the cafeteria. It is of concrete block construction and entirely fireproof. The most modern of lighting fixtures have been installed. Heating is done by an oil furnace with forced air. Landin and son, of Sugar Grove, were the contractors.

Plans are under way for utilizing the cafeteria building for use as an auditorium also.

Present teachers, who handle a total of 89 students in six grades, are Mrs. John Wheeler and Mrs. Oscar Johnson, of Youngville, and Mrs. Robert Reagle, of Corry. Many former teachers were in attendance at the ceremonies.

THE WRONG PACKAGE

A delivery boy stood at the front door of an apartment building with a big package in his hands, while a loud-voiced woman was declaring to the whole world that the package was not hers, though it bore her name and address. It seems that the store from which she had made a small purchase had ordered the article shipped direct from the manufacturer, and the merchandise, together with the excessive packaging, had made a package so large that the woman could not reconcile it with the size of her purchase. Hence the noisy argument.

Many of us have had just such an experience with prayer. We have asked God for one thing, and what seemed like another thing has arrived.

Henry Ward Beecher was accustomed to tell the story of a woman in his congregation who, prayed for patience, and the Lord sent her a very stupid servant girl. To deal with such a girl she had to become patient, but it looked like the wrong package.

Two thousand years ago the Hebrew people were praying for a Messiah. God sent them a little child. As George MacDonald puts it:

"They all were looking for a king
To slay their foes and lift them high;
Thou canst a little baby thing
That made a woman cry.
To them it looked like the wrong package and they refused it. In doing they turned their backs on the greatest gift in all the world, even God's Son.

But let us not be too hasty in condemning our Hebrew brethren for refusing what seemed like the wrong package. Each Christmas, God comes to each one of us, and stands outside the door of our hearts, and asks us to accept His Christmas Gift. "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life." But we refuse His gift. It looks like the wrong package.

Jesus' way is not our way. We feel that meekness is a sign of weakness. We want to be strong and powerful. We think that national security lies in the atom bomb, in strong air forces, and bigger battle-wagons, forgetting or ignoring the fact that national security lies in the character of the people and the democratic principles which are practiced, rather than merely given lip service.

Individually, we feel that security lies in a fat bankbook, or $100 a month pensions, or a good job. While these things are good, they are not the highest good. "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God, and His righteousness, and then these things." We have reversed the order. We "lay up treasure on earth" rather than "treasure in heaven," and then complain to God that He has delivered the wrong package.

Millions of our present generation are turning the world upside down in the search for peace and contentment. Too many think it can be bought over the counter. Many are smared by the delusion that better paint on the walls, richer and deeper upholstery on the furniture, copper tubing and more elaborate fixtures in the bathroom, will all add up to a full measure of joy and contentment. Such is not the case.

Scarcely do we have our homes fixed up just the way we want them when the styles change and our contentment changes with them. The package God delivers says, "Love not the world, nor the things of the world." But we have to take the consequences in discontent and lack of peace of mind and heart.

Christmas comes to us each year as God's lovely reminder that in the simple things of life the truest riches are found; that true happiness is not found in the acquisitive spirit, but in the desire to give and to share; that in the simplicities of the child-like spirit, with its trust and faith, true greatness, happiness and peace are found. "God comes without bell."

How silently, how silently
The wondrous gift is given!
So God imparts to human hearts
The blessings of His heaven.
No ear may hear His coming,
But in this world of sin,
Where meek souls will receive Him still

The dear Christ enters in.
Some of the most valuable experiences of life are to be found among those things we have most studiously undertaken to turn aside. We have refused to accept them when delivered at our doors, because they looked too difficult or too good to be true. We could not believe they were intended for us.

So, as Christmas comes, let us accept God's free gift, "Counting everything as loss because of the surpassing worth of knowing Christ Jesus as Lord."

Pittsburgh, Dec. 20.—(AP)—Egg prices today are down from 15 to 25 cents below last week's dollar-a-dozen transactions in some Pittsburgh markets. Egg dealers said the price likely will continue to drop slowly the rest of the week.

ERIE LABOR VOTE

Pittsburgh, Dec. 20.—(AP)—The National Labor Relations Board reported today employees of the Fitch Baking Co. of Erie, voted gaining by the International Association of Machinists. One hundred employees were eligible to vote.

The name "clerk" which is used today to describe a salesman in a store or a minor office functionary originally meant a man who had taken religious orders.

Community Party Held In Garland Is Largely Attended

Garland, Dec. 20.—The Community Christmas party was held at the home of Mrs. Merle Sandrock, with a large attendance. Gifts were exchanged to carry out the spirit of the season.

School children staged their Christmas program in the community house, with a large number present to enjoy the young folks at their best.

Sympathy is extended Mr. Reslink and family in the death of his mother, Kathleen Reslink, Meadville. Her death occurred in the Meadville hospital after she had been seriously burned when her clothing caught fire from an open stove in the home of a neighbor.

Mr. Gladstone Meredith, R. No. 1, Box 261, Valley Station, Ky., who works with Korpheg Florists in Louisville, says that while he's not an expert on flowers and plants, he does know that when they get the proper soil, sunshine and minerals they really do blossom out, and that folks are the same way—one doesn't want the proper vitamins and minerals needed one feels miserable a lot of the time.

Here is Mr. Meredith's own statement on how HADACOL helped him:

"Before I started taking HADACOL I didn't have a bit of appetite—seems like food didn't appeal to me a bit. Couldn't sleep either—sometimes I'd lay awake for hours before I'd get some rest. I was just as jumpy as I could be. I was really in sorry shape. Then I heard how other folks with the same trouble I had were being helped by HADACOL. I can say that after the first few bottles I could tell a definite improvement. Now I feel first rate—have the wonderful appetite, get plenty of sleep and am not the least bit nervous. I think HADACOL is wonderful—would never do without it myself."

There Are Thousands of folks all over the country whose systems were deficient in Vitamins B1, B2, Iron and Niacin and who HADACOL has helped. HADACOL can help you, too, if you will just give HADACOL a chance—if you suffer from stomach distress, certain nervous disturbances, insomnia when due to upset stomach, vague aches and pains, or a general run-down condition when they are due to such deficiencies, let HADACOL help you as it has helped others all over the country.

Give remarkable HADACOL a chance. Remember, you have nothing to lose. HADACOL will make you feel better after the first few bottles you take, or your money will be refunded. Only $1.25 for Trial Size; Large Family or Hospital Size, $3.50. If your druggist does not have HADACOL, order direct from The LeBlanc Corporation, Lafayette, Louisiana.

MILK RIVER RANGE

by LEE FLOREN

Chapter Five

TER eating at the Steerhorn, Buck McKee and Tortilla Joe with Jim and Mart Tuttle and the Lazy N-S.

When they were a few miles from Beaverton, Buck noticed instead of heading northwest the Lazy N-S, Jim was leading a lone herd of the foot-hill heading almost due west. "Where you taking us?" asked Jim. "Taking you out to look at the what dam?" he demanded. "Little pointed down at the valley stretching to the north. We're going water to those farms in there," said Tuttle. "We aim irrigate and turn this valley into farming land." "Who's crazy here?" asked Jim. "The old man's dream, Buck," said Mart.

Jim Tuttle's eyes were thoughtful. "I tried to fight them at first, but the sodabusters, I mean. But I got some sense. They came in my range. I've got eyes. The thing on the wall was there. I could see it. The trouble is Cavanaugh is that he can't do it."

"This farming business," said Buck, "is new stuff to me. Now I own those houses and farms in yonder?"

"The government still owns part of the land," explained Jim. "You see, we haven't got any riders and the farmers settled on the land long enough to prove up on it. But most of the old yonder will get their st homestead papers soon."

"Riders?" asked Buck. "You can you got cow-punchers on rms?"

Tuttle nodded. "That's the size of it. Of course, they don't intend hang onto the farms after they've up on them. They're still in my payroll, and they'll deal the land over to me when they get their papers."

"Then you'll turn it into cow range, huh?"

"No," Jim shook his head. "That's not it, Buck. The day of the cowman in Milk River Valley—as far as free range is concerned—is over. This land is too valuable to waste for cow feed. This is farming land. But above all that, it's hay-raising land. And you need plenty of hay in this country."

Buck agreed with that statement. According to what he had heard, southern cattlemen had driven huge herds into Montana. And the N Bar N, one of Montana's biggest spreads, had driven in from the west, coming from Oregon.

But these cowmen, used to mild Oregon winters and snow-free southern range, had run into howling blizzards and lost their herds, or the greater percentage of them. Lost them to freezing weather and snow-covered ranges.

There was only one way to run cattle in Montana, and that called for feeding hay in the winter.

Buck leaned back in his saddle. "I see," he murmured. "So you aim to run cattle back in the foothills and the rough country, where a man can't irrigate and where the land is only fit for grazing, and use the bottomlands for raising feed for the dogs in the winter?"

"But we're missing one main thing," continued old Jim, ignoring his son's remark. "It takes water to grow alfalfa, and there's not much rain in this country. So I'm building a dam."

"Consarn that dam," exclaimed Mart. "That's going to get us into trouble."

Jim Tuttle smiled. "Take it easy, kid," he said. "We were bound to get in trouble with Len Cavanaugh, dam on the dam." He looked at Buck. "Maybe there's range for both of us, maybe there's not."

"There's not," said Mart.

Buck nodded. "Looks that way to me, too."

"There it is," said Tuttle.

THEY had halted at the lip of a steep cut. Below, Beaver Creek tumbled through a ravine. On the bed of the cut, teams and fresnos were laboring.

"Level stretch of land right behind the dam, too," Buck pointed out. "You can impound a heap of water there, Jim."

They rode down slope, brones sliding in shale. Jim introduced them to his dirt boss Jensen—a square-jawed, big-shouldered Scandinavian. He shook hands and his grip was firm.

"Where do Tortilla and I fit in?" asked Buck.

"You're goin' to take up a homestead," said Jim.

"Not me," announced Tortilla Joe.

Old Jim bristled. "Where do you think you'd fit in, Buck?"

"I've got guns," said Buck slowly. "Two guns. I know horses and cattle. And I think I know something about men. That's four things I know something about, Jim. Which is it?"

Jim Tuttle leaned back against his stirrups, and said, "The wages are two hundred and found, men. How does that strike you, Tortilla Joe?"

"Between the eyes," said the Mexican.

Old Jim had to grin. "And you, Buck?"

"Cut it to fifty and beans," murmured Buck. "Then tell me what the first chore is."

"Got some dogs back in the hills to gather. Fact is, they haven't been gathered for about two years."

"They're wild stuff," said Mart, grinning. "Plenty wild, Buck. And the country's rough—slam—and cut coles—"

"That's it," said Jim. "But where are these fire-eating critters?"

"Over yonder," Jim Tuttle pointed to the north. Fully ten miles away the northern hills. Then those hills drifted off into the clear distance of space—and finally Buck's eyes could see no farther.

"Fifty miles to the Canadian line," said Tuttle. "Rough country, wild cattle—stiff slants. How about it, Buck?"

Buck felt the challenge of it stir his blood. Coldly, his eyes touched the terrain. He read in it a gesture of defiance that tingled through him and whetted his desire.

"The cows," said Buck, "are as good as in your corral, Jim."

Public Duped By Many of the New Drug Discoveries

New York. — The American public has gone overboard for miracle drugs. Today, any "amazing new medical discovery" can produce sales of $1,000,000 a month, regardless of merit!

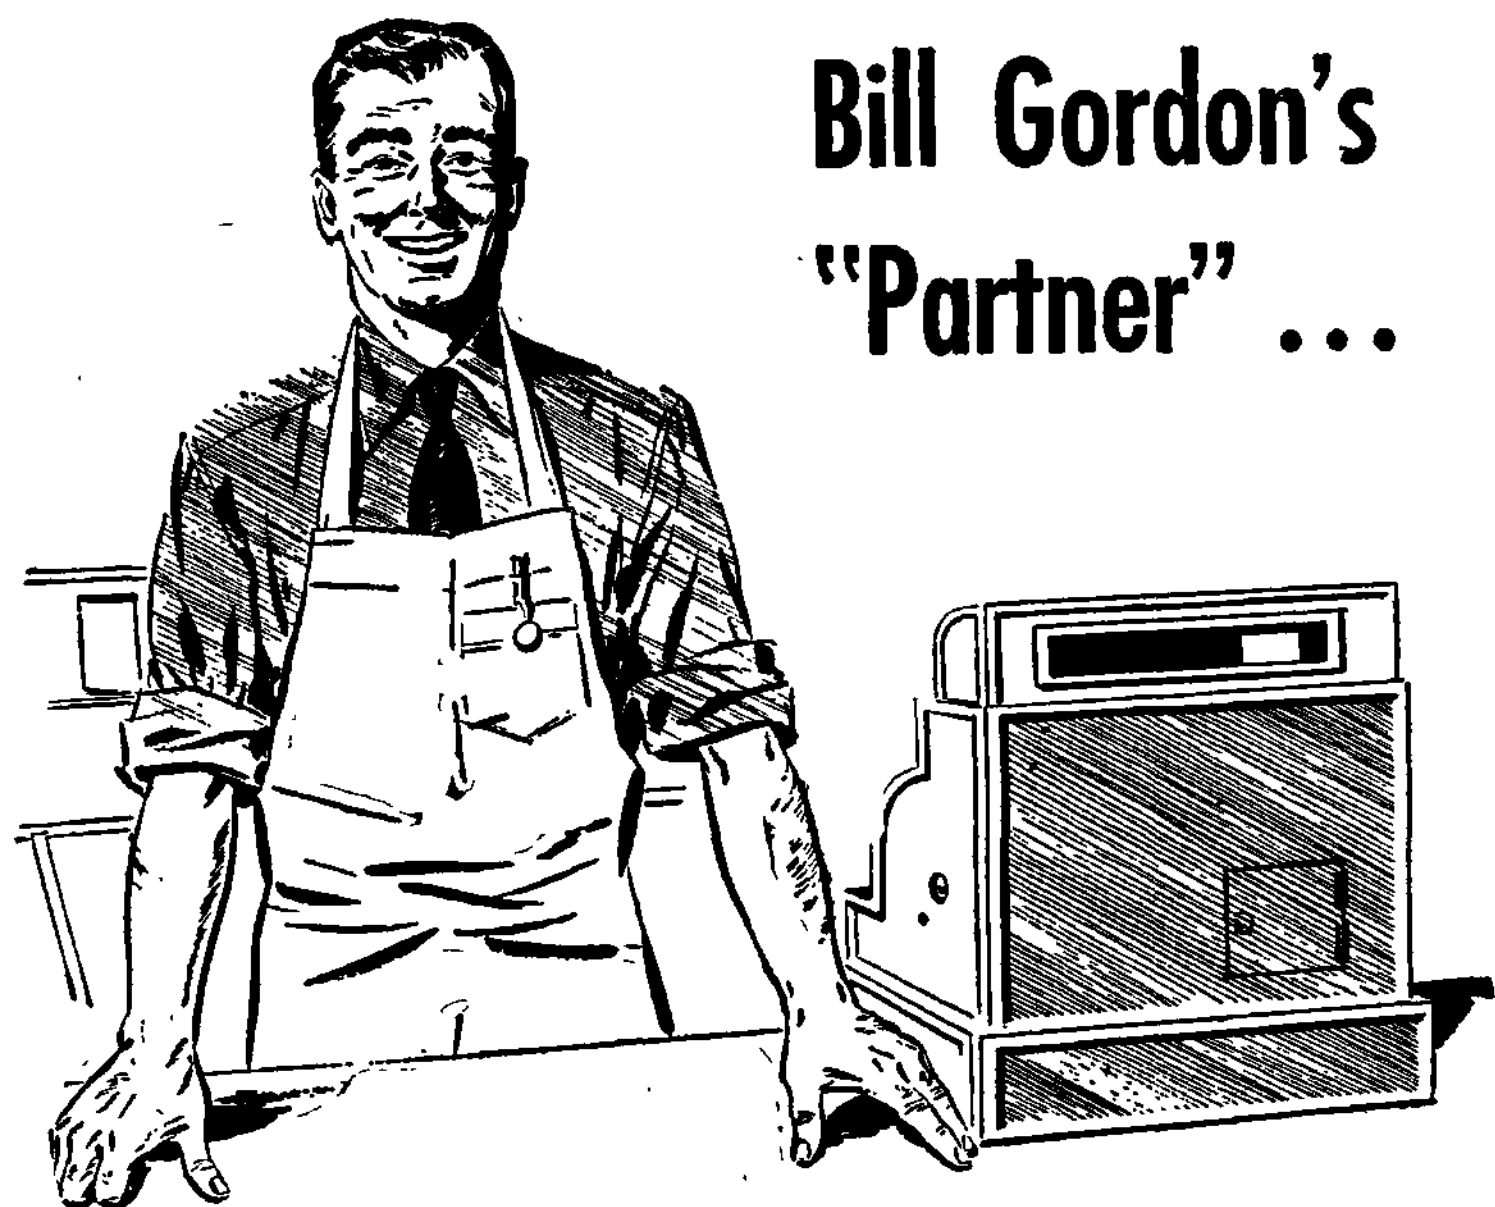

That's why miracle drugs can be called million-dollar nonsense, warns an article in the just-out issue of a leading magazine, a startling report which shows how easy it is for unscrupulous or misguided manufacturers to capitalize on the public's abiding faith in the infallibility of modern science.

The record is strewn with "miracles" that have fizzled into commonplace, dangerous or worthless compounds. For example, in April, 1949, ACTH and cortisone were hailed as new discoveries for arthritis. But a few months later the real facts seeped out. Cortisone was not a cure; it merely provided temporary relief. Moreover, repeated doses are essential and the danger from constant use may be extreme.

The most recent well-heralded discovery was antihistamine which would finish off the common cold. After millions of the expensive pills were purchased by the eager public, it developed that "there is no solid evidence that the true cold is influenced by antihistamines or antibiotics," to quote Dr. Arthur L. Bloomfield of Stamford University Medical School.

Why does the public believe the claims made for new miracles in medicine? Mainly because people feel they are protected against misleading claims by the Food and Drug Administration. Unfortunately, this isn't true. It is legally possible for a businessman to bottle some distilled water, label it "Revivo—Safe for Internal Use" and on that basis receive a permit from the FDA for its distribution. Once this permit is granted, he can change the label to make exaggerated claims for his product and before the FDA can stop him, it must assemble expert opinion to testify that his claims are false. It must sue in court to halt the sale of Revivo, a process that might require months. By the time the law catches up with Revivo, the hopeful victims who might otherwise have been saved by proper medical treatment are beyond help.

How can the average person keep from being fooled by promise of miracle drugs? Principally by maintaining an active skepticism—especially of drugs advocated for the cure of chronic disease, such as arthritis, cancer or heart disease. And by remembering that nobody has developed a satisfactory substitute for the good-old-reliable physician.

Bill Gordon's "Partner" ...

Your grocer, Bill Gordon, has a "partner" who is very valuable to him, and Bill's business would suffer if his "partner" ever failed him. It never has. You see, Bill's partner is his daily newspaper. It brings him news ... it tells his customers about the food and bargains he has for them. His daily newspaper lets him know, in a brief but thorough manner, what his customers are thinking ... saying ... doing. It serves him in many other ways, too. In bringing Bill Gordon the news of his community, nation and the world, his newspaper doesn't do a helter-skelter job. It sifts and resifts the news so he won't have to do it himself. It brings him information by leaders in every field ... it tells him who won the ball game. In its editorial columns it discusses problems, exposes wrongs and works for him and his community every day in the year.

Yes, Bill Gordon's daily newspaper is all important to him—it's all important to you too.

YOUR NEWSPAPER IS YOUR EVERY DAY PARTNER ... SERVING YOU IN COUNTLESS WAYS.

Chapter Six

THEY were riding along a section line, a straight strip of tiny new barbed wire, when they saw the approaching rider. Jim Tuttle scowled and said, "That looks like Jesse Smith, don't it, Mart?"

"That's him," said Mart.

"Who's Jesse Smith?" asked Buck.

"Friend of mine. Sodabuster from back in Nebraska. Got a homestead he's holding down for me. Saw him in town this morning. Nice fellow, Jesse."

Jesse Smith cantered up. Despite the man's rural appearance, Buck saw that he rode like a cowpuncher, a man born to the saddle. Tuttle introduced Buck and Tortilla Joe.

"Heard of you men in Beaverton this morning," said Smith. "You an' Tortilla Joe goin' to stay around long?"

"Jim here wants us to round up some dogs of his," said Buck. "Don't know how long that'll take, but when it's over with, we'll shuffle on again. We never did stay long in one place."

"This is a fine country," said Smith. "You might take a hankerin' to settle down."

Smith spoke to Jim Tuttle. "Headin' for home, Jim?"

"Yep. Where you going?"

"Home, I reckon. Got to stop my hog."

A quarter-hour later, they rode past a farmer's shack. The man hailed Jim Tuttle, and the four riders pulled in.

"The missus—she bawled me out, Jim. He held his thick hand up to Jim Tuttle. 'I just flew off the handle, Jim. Shake hands and we call it square, huh?'"

"You've got to watch that tongue of yours, Bornelli," advised Tuttle. "Play cards with me and you'll come out on top. Otherwise, if we split up, Len Cavanaugh'll cut your throat—and he'll use a dull knife."

"So my wife tells me."

"Where's the missus now?"

"Hired and the kids are over to Ma Halverson's. The old lady is goin' to have a birthday party this evenin'. I'm just drivin' over there for a while now. I'm comin' back to do my chores, then go back again. Are we callin' it square, Jim?"

"Okay," said Tuttle, taking the man's outstretched hand.

"We are friends again?"

"Friends."

The man's square face broke into a smile. "That is good." Buck looked inquiringly at Jim Tuttle, who chuckled loudly.

Me and Bornelli had a few harsh words over the water system. He figured I wasn't playing square with him. He's a good man—a hard worker—but he's got that darn dumbness and temper."

They put spurs to their mounts, and loped across the prairie. They saw two other riders on their way to the Lazy N-S.

These riders rode fast, the man astride the dappled gray taking the lead, the thinner man thundering his bronc beside the gray.

"Len Cavanaugh and Shuffie Watson," said Buck. "Where they heading for, Jim?"

Tuttle scowled. "Must be heading for the home ranch. Now why would he and Shuffie be heading toward the ranch? Most of Cavanaugh's business is transacted from his office down in Beaverton."

"You can't tell about Cavanaugh," said Mart.

THIRTY minutes later, they rode into the grove of cottonwoods and box elders that surrounded the Lazy N-S ranch house. The clatter of their hurrying hoofs brought three women to the porch, and Buck recognized Ma Tuttle's rotund form.

"Who's the other two?" he asked young Mart.

"One's my cousin, Cynthia Tuttle. She had a spell of hard luck down in Wyoming; lost her mother and dad. She's lived with us for over a year. And the other"

—the youth squinted—"looks to me like she's Jennie Hanks."

Tortilla Joe had overheard. "Jennie Hanks," he snorted. "That ol' muchacho's hija—the daughter of ol' Weeshbone, back in the jail?"

"Yep, that's Jennie," said Buck. "She must have come out direct from town while we were swingin' around to inspect the dam."

"Madre de Dios," breathed Tortilla Joe.

"Buck up, Tortilla," said Jim. Ma Tuttle, her round face abeam, shook hands with Buck and Tortilla Joe, keeping up a running line of chatter.

"Good to see you boys again. How are things down in New Mexico?" She did not wait for an answer. "Dinner is ready to serve. We've been holding it for you men. What kept you so long, Jim?"

"Lots of things, Ma."

"This is my niece, Cynthia Tuttle," said Ma. "She's the daughter of Jim's brother, Carlton."

Cynthia was a short girl with dark hair and dark eyes. Her handclasp was warm and strong for a girl of her size. Buck decided that this girl is Jennie Hanks.

Ma Tuttle went on. "Jennie's eyes were on Tortilla Joe."

"Dinner's ready," said Ma. "Come inside, Buck. Cynthia, get the potatoes and gravy. Jennie, you sit there—next to Tortilla Joe."

"Cut the chatter," said Jim Tuttle. "and bring on the chow. The meal was simple, but well cooked. Afterwards, Buck and Tortilla Joe and Jim Tuttle went to the bunkhouse, where Jim showed them their bunks. Most of the punchers were out on daily chores—riding line-fence, riding hog. A few were repairing equipment. Haymaking would start soon and there were harnesses to be mended, mowers to be repaired, hayrakes to work over."

Letter Received From Boy In Korea

Sugar Grove, Dec. 20—Mrs. Walter Sweeney has received a letter from her brother, Pfc. Edward Richmond, dated December 1st and written in a foxhole near the Penjon Reservoir.

In it he states he has just received his first three letters from home, having arrived in Korea November 17. He tells of the extremely cold weather, remarking that his canteen, kept beside him during the night, was frequently frozen solid.

He also related an experience in which 12 North Koreans, coming with a white flag, explained they wanted food and to get warm. After they had explained that a contingent of about 300 Chinese troops was nearby, his outfit decided to go out after them on the following morning.

Concluding, he spoke of the shelling and shooting which goes on all the time.

National Church Council Will Pray For Peace Dec. 24

New York—(AP)—The American Council of Christian Churches has set Dec. 24 as a day of special prayer for peace and freedom and for President Truman. An announcement from council leaders said prayers would be offered for the President "in this time of tremendous strain and superhuman responsibility that he may receive special grace to lead us aright."

The announcement was made in a telegram to Rep. F. Edward Hebert, (D-La.), who recently suggested to Mr. Truman that he proclaim a day of prayer—and received a tart reply.

Mr. Truman said in his letter to Hebert that he already had asked in his Thanksgiving proclamation for the people to pray for peace. Then the President added a paragraph saying he regretted Hebert's sentiments were not thought before the November election in Louisiana and some other states.

The council telegram to Hebert was released by the council office here. It bore the names of Dr. W. W. Breckbill of Altoona, Pa., president of the American Council of Christian Churches, and Dr. Carl McIntire of Collingswood, N. J., president of the International Council of Christian Churches.

They told Hebert: "Your letter expresses the sentiments of many. It is western civilization's Gethsemane before the crucifixion."

A spokesman for the council said it represented about 8,000 congregations in the United States. Members of the council, he said, include the general association of regular Baptist churches, the Independent Fundamental Churches of America and the Bible Presbyterian Church.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

WHY GUESS WHEN THE KING'S BETTER

By OSWALD JACOBI
Written for NEA Service

It is sometimes hard to imagine how a player can possibly find a way to lose a particular contract. For example, in today's hand it may seem that South had to be very ingenious to be set at four hearts. Actually South didn't do anything very remarkable. It is sad but true that thousands of players might have made the same mistake.

West opened the five of hearts since the bidding indicated that dummy had ruffing power and a short suit. West's intention, a very proper one, was to reduce dummy's ruffing power by leading trumps at every opportunity. South looked at the opening lead with great suspicion. Since this particular South would not dream of leading away from the king of trumps if he were a defender, he did not imagine that West had done so. He decided that East must have the king of trumps and that the only chance to avoid the loss of a trump trick was to put up dummy's ace of hearts at once. When he did so, East discarded the three of spades and South groaned mightily.

Having misplayed the trumps, South looked around for new worlds to conquer. He immediately ly led a low spade from dummy. East calmly played the six of spades, and now South had to guess whether to play the king or the jack.

South went through all the orthodox procedures. He looked at East, and then he looked at West. His next step was to look at the ceiling. He then scratched his head and stroked his chin. He finally played the king of spades with his mind. That was the end of poor South. He was now bound to lose two spades, a club, and a trump.

There is no need to comment on the first trick South had to guess what West was doing on the opening lead, and perhaps the play of the ace of hearts was merely a bad guess. The rest of it, however, was not a bad guess but actually a very bad play.

There was no earthly need for South to take his spade guess at the second trick. He should have led a club from dummy to get some information about the hand. East would have stepped up with the ace of clubs, and then East probably would have returned a low spade.

At this stage, South would be in a position to do some real thinking instead of merely scratching his head. East had passed three hands. He had already shown up void of hearts and with the club. Could he also be void of spades? South would have reached the conclusion that he had found a club and that he would find a heart and make his contract.

STRIKES 12TH WELL

The 12th successful gas well in the new Leidy Field of Western Clinton County blew in on the farm of County Commissioner Hamilton Proctor—almost in his back yard. The new well, drilled by the New York Natural Gas Co. of Pittsburgh, came in late Wednesday with an pen flow of 13,500,000 cubic feet a day. The well is the third strike for the company in the Leidy Field. It will be drilled deeper to increase the gas flow. The Cabot Co., of Boston, brought in its fourth well this week on the land of Orlin Papetto.

WOMAN SENTENCED

A weird story of tampering with the mails unfolded during a tearful scene at the Federal Court House in Erie Monday when Mrs. Thelma L. Warner, 45, of Route 1, Titusville, was sentenced to two concurrent six-month terms in the Erie county jail. Judge Owen M. Burns sentenced her on two charges to which she had pleaded guilty—ordering merchandise under fraudulent pretenses and stealing checks from a mailbox and appropriating the contents. Federal postal inspectors told Judge Burr about Mrs. Warner's activities which extended over nearly a year. The account sounded as if it had been taken from the pages of an imaginative novel. Six of Vroma area woman's seven children and her husband were in the court room during the sentencing. Tears streaked down the children's cheeks as the court-appointed attorney asked for leniency on their account.

Towering Kane Basketbblers Whip Warren Dragons, 48 to 35

Kane High Wolves used their superior height to good advantage last night to drub the Warren High Basketbblers, 48 to 35, on the Kane High court.

The Dragons were unable to effectively find the scoring range, making good only 14 out of 64 shots, and their rebound work, both on the offense and the defense, left much to be desired.

Kane outpointed the Dragons, 17 to 14, from the open court, but had a big advantage in 14-7 scoring from the black stripe. Warren's seven foul points were made in 20 tries, while the Killtoppers had 27 chances in which to make their 14 units.

Warren fans were bitterly disappointed in the ticket policy at Kane High. Dragon followers were able to gain admittance to the Kane gym last night, the rest of the seats having been sold on a reserved seat basis to residents of Kane.

Kulka was top point-maker of the evening, notching 13 points for the victors. Paul Gordon was second high with 11.

The defeat was the second in six starts this season for the Blue and White. The Dragons will be idle this Friday night, and will return to action next Tuesday when they clash with the Erie Tech powerhouse at Beaty gym.

All-Star Birdie Tebbetts Sold For Diagnosing Bosox Ills

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—For three years the Red Sox have found a way to lose the American League pennant.

Everybody who saw two games knows that last season pitching left the Boston Americans short.

So George Robert Tebbetts wasn't telling anybody anything new when he spoke at his bachelor's dinner shortly after the World Series. It couldn't have been what Birdie Tebbetts said, so it must have been the way he said it that led to the sudden sale of the All-Star Game catcher to the Indians.

Steve O'Neill and young Maurice McDermott were present, but Tebbetts, one of the more articulate ballplayers, believed he was speaking off the record.

"You can blame it on the morose malcontents and juvenile delinquents," asserted the veteran. "Some of our pitchers are children psychologically."

THOSE who know the Bosox best will tell you Tebbetts could have made that a blanket indictment and come close to making it stick. Now isn't that too bad? The poor little pitchers might not like Tebbetts for saying what was obvious to everyone even remotely acquainted with the situation.

It could be that Manager O'Neill of the Back Bay Millionaires, an old catcher, doesn't like Tebbetts' handling of pitchers.

Anyway, it was the same O'Neill, then piloting the Tigers, who swapped Tebbetts to the Red Sox for Hal Wagner, a mediocre performer, in May, 1947.

With that, the Tigers dropped from second to fifth and O'Neill went out like Happy Chandler.

The Red Sox were tickled to death with Tebbetts until O'Neill took over.

Birdie Tebbetts relieving Jim Hegan of that many arguments easily could mean a pennant.

This is especially true with the Cleveland pitching.
